PURPOSE OF THE JOB:

Saracens Sport Foundation is the charitable arm of European Champions Saracens. The charity works across Hertfordshire and North London to inspire communities and change lives through the power of sport. We're dedicated in bringing about positive change and through our programmes, we engage and challenge participants to lead active, healthy and rewarding lives. We aim to address specific social needs within our community by encouraging increased participation in sport and physical activity; breaking down barriers to participation for specific excluded groups, developing interventions to address health issues and developing pathways into education and employment.

The individual will be expected to support the Project Rugby Manager in the delivery of 'Project Rugby' within the disABILITY and/or Black, Asian, Minority Ethnic (BAME) and Low Social Economic Groups (LSEG) strands. This position will support wider programmes within Saracens Sport Foundation. The individual will possess excellent communication skills and the ability to motivate others both when coaching sessions and co-ordinating programmes. The role will combine sound understanding of rugby coaching within schools and clubs as well as the rugby landscape with the ability to develop individuals from varying backgrounds.

It is imperative that this post holder upholds the values and vision and is an excellent role model to any participant, stakeholder and any internal member of staff. This role will require the individual to be inspiring and passionate and aware of the four strands of delivery through the Foundation but be focused predominantly on our strand of participation. The individual will be enthusiastic about the cause and deploy these values in everything they do. The challenging yet rewarding position underpins our values and ethics to ensure that we make a difference through participation.

It is imperative the individual is an ambassador for our club, supporting our values and ethics. They will need to have energy, drive, determination, be organised and be an excellent team player. Autonomy will be key as they will be organising their own diary and schedule of events.
